Explanatory Note

This note is not part of this instrument but is intended to indicate its general effect.

This instrument amends the Temporary Accommodation Assistance (Canterbury Earthquake) Programme:

- to allow people whose usual homes are in the red zone to receive temporary accommodation assistance if they have had to vacate their homes because they are uninhabitable or are required to be demolished, or have vacated because it is unreasonable, in the opinion of the chief executive, for them to continue living in them, provided they intend to resettle elsewhere in the Canterbury region;
- to allow temporary accommodation assistance for people whose homes are in the red zone to continue until either a Government offer to purchase the home or land is accepted and any applicable deposit is paid, the Government offer expires or settlement with their insurance company, or for nine months after their homes were designated as red zone land for those without insurance granted temporary accommodation assistance in exceptional circumstances;
- to clarify that people whose claim for temporary accommodation insurance cover has not been accepted by their insurance company on the grounds that the home is not uninhabitable are not eligible for temporary accommodation assistance unless their homes are in the red zone;
- to clarify that temporary accommodation assistance is not payable if any other person is occupying a person’s home for a monetary consideration;
- to allow splitting of payments of temporary accommodation assistance between an applicant and the spouse or partner of an applicant.

The amendments come into effect on the day after the date on which the instrument is made.

4. Reasons for granting the exemption—The reasons for granting this exemption are:

- electricity cannot be left disconnected without causing public transport to fail in Wellington;
- the cost of complying with the metering requirements of the Code for a temporary installation are unreasonable;
- TrustPower can calculate consumption with some degree of accuracy from historic data; and
- TrustPower will submit estimated reconciliation information to the Reconciliation Manager in accordance with the Code for reconciliation so other participants will not be significantly disadvantaged.

Dated at Wellington this 3rd day of August 2011.
