Authorities and Other Agencies of State Notices

Commerce Commission

Commerce Act 1986

Commerce Act (Transpower Thresholds) Amendment Notice 2011

Pursuant to Part 4 of the Commerce Act 1986, the Commerce Commission gives the following notice:

Notice

1. Title—(1) This notice is the Commerce Act (Transpower Thresholds) Amendment Notice 2011.

(2) In this notice, the Commerce Act (Transpower Thresholds) Notice 2008 (Supplement to the New Zealand Gazette, 27 June 2008, No. 106, page 2793) is referred to as the “Principal Notice”.

2. Effective date—This notice is deemed to take effect on 1 July 2008 (the commencement date of the Principal Notice).

3. Amendment to Principal Notice—Clause 7(1) of Schedule 1 of the Principal Notice is revoked and is substituted with the following:

“7(1) Transpower is to receive a return of capital through a depreciation charge based upon the life of the underlying assets. Subject to clause 7(1A), the calculation of the depreciation charge and any asset write off must be consistent with GAAP and the depreciated historical cost valuation methodology, and must include “depreciation” relating to operating leases and pseudo assets.”

New clause 7(1A) is inserted in Schedule 1 of the Principal Notice immediately after clause 7(1):

“7(1A) Any net loss arising from foreign exchange and commodity hedges relating to capital expenditure that is expensed under GAAP must be treated as capital expenditure and must be fully depreciated in the year incurred. Any net gain arising from foreign exchange and commodity hedges relating to capital expenditure that is recognised as income under GAAP must be applied as a reduction in depreciation in the year it is realised.”

Dated at Wellington this 4th day of August 2011.

COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Explanatory Note

*In May 2008, the Commerce Commission set thresholds for the declaration of control in relation to Transpower New Zealand Limited under Part 4A of the Commerce Act 1986 (“the Act”) and published those thresholds in a Supplement to the New Zealand Gazette, 27 June 2008, No. 106, page 2793, as the Commerce Act (Transpower Thresholds) Notice 2008 (the “Principal Notice”).*

Further detail regarding the thresholds can be found in a Decision Paper “Decision and Reasons for not Declaring Control of Transpower New Zealand Limited & Decision to Reset Transpower’s Thresholds”, published by the Commerce Commission on 13 May 2008.

The majority of the provisions of Part 4A of the Act were repealed by the Commerce Amendment Act 2008.

On 28 July 2011, the Commerce Commission and Transpower agreed that the Administrative Settlement should be amended to allow Transpower to treat hedge losses relating to capital expenditure as capital expenditure, rather than as operating expenditure under GAAP.

Under the amendment, the hedge losses must be treated as additional depreciation in the year that the loss is incurred. Any hedge gains must be treated as a reduction in capital expenditure and the allowance for depreciation must be reduced in the year that the gain is realised.

All persons are required to provide the council with a statement about their fitness to practise when they apply for registration or for a practising certificate.

The council may also examine a person (section 25(a)), require statutory declarations (section 25(b)), require other information (section 25(c)) and take various actions under specific, relevant sections of the Veterinarians Act 2005.

2. Professional Conduct Standards

Pursuant to section 88(3) of the Veterinarians Act 2005, the council refers persons to the document “Code of Professional Conduct for Veterinarians” (the “Code”) available on its website

www.vetcouncil.org.nz

and from the council’s office on request. This sets out the professional conduct standards veterinarians are required to meet and may be measured against.

The Code is structured around the following core principles of veterinary professional behaviour:

- (a) Protecting animal welfare and alleviating animal suffering;
- (b) practising in a way that promotes effective communication and trust, meets confidentiality and consent requirements, and recognises clients’ right to choose;
- (c) interacting with colleagues honestly and with respect and in a way that fosters good relationships and communication;
- (d) acting in a manner that promotes the public’s trust and confidence in the profession;
- (e) striving to provide a high standard of veterinary practice;
- (f) exercising sound professional judgement when authorising, dispensing, recommending, selling and using veterinary medicines; and
- (g) practising in accordance with relevant legislation and other applicable standards.

Supporting each Code principle is a series of statements which set out the specific expectations of veterinarians.

3. Competence to Practise

(a) Competency Standards

Pursuant to section 88(3) of the Veterinarians Act 2005, the council refers persons to the document “Competency Standards and Performance Indicators for Veterinarians” available on its website

www.vetcouncil.org.nz

and from the council’s office on request. This sets out the competency standards council expects veterinarians to meet, at the point of initial registration, and on an ongoing basis, and provides criteria against which an individual veterinarian’s performance may be measured.

(b) Recency of Practice

Non-recency of practice can impact on performance. All applicants for a practising certificate are required to provide the council with information on their recency of practice. In the following situations, the council, after consideration of the individual circumstances of the case, may propose to decline or place conditions upon the applicant’s practising certificate (section 26(3)(c)) for:

- those who have not practised as a veterinarian for the last three consecutive years, or have not practised as a veterinarian for the last three consecutive years in the area in which they intend to practise; and
- those who hold a recognised qualification or a pass in a prescribed examination or assessment programme (section 6) but have not:
 - practised as a veterinarian for one or more years subsequent to gaining registration; or
 - practised for one or more years in the area in which they intend to practise subsequent to gaining registration.

(c) Continuing Professional Development

The council requires all veterinarians to maintain and enhance their performance by engaging in continuing professional development activities.

Pursuant to section 88(3) of the Veterinarians Act 2005, the council refers persons to the document “Continuing Professional Development – Information for Veterinarians” available on its website

www.vetcouncil.org.nz

and from the council’s office on request. This sets out the continuing professional development standards council expects veterinarians to meet.

Under section 25, when considering an application for a practising certificate, the council may require the applicant to provide any document or information that the council considers, on reasonable grounds, is necessary to assess his or her application.

The council will use this section to monitor veterinarian's compliance with the continuing professional development declarations made in their annual practising certificate declarations. Section 26 may be used in situations of non-compliance.

*This notice replaces the Veterinary Council of New Zealand notice published in the New Zealand Gazette, 31 March 2011, No. 41, page 1007. The changes relate to the addition of the professional conduct standards the council requires veterinarians to meet, as set out in the document "Code of Professional Conduct for Veterinarians".
