Notice

1. Title—This notice is the Commerce Act (Summary of Transpower Individual Price-Quality Path Determination) Notice 2011.
2. Transpower individual price-quality path determination
 - 2.1 On 22 December 2010, the Commission made the Commerce Act (Transpower Individual Price-Quality Path Determination 2010 ("Determination")).
 - 2.2 The Determination sets out an individual price-quality path for Transpower, as defined in section 54B of the Act ("Transpower") pursuant to the Commerce (Part 4 Regulation—Transpower) Order 2010 issued under section 52N of the Act, as required by Part 4 of the Act.
 - 2.3 In accordance with section 52P(7)(b) of the Act, this notice is published as a summary of the Determination.
3. Summary of the Determination
 - 3.1 The Determination sets out the individual price-quality path applying to Transpower for the period 1 April 2011 to 31 March 2015 ("Regulatory Period").
 - 3.2 The individual price-quality path consists of a price path and quality standards that Transpower is required to comply with during the Regulatory Period.
 - 3.3 In relation to the price path, the Determination sets out Transpower's maximum allowable revenue (which is the forecast maximum allowable revenue) for the first year in the Regulatory Period (1 April 2011 to 31 March 2012). By 30 November 2011, the Commission will amend the Determination to set out Transpower's forecast maximum allowable revenue, and approved levels of operating and capital expenditure, for each of Transpower's pricing years in the period 1 April 2012 to 31 March 2015.
 - 3.4 In relation to quality standards, the Determination requires that Transpower discloses information in relation to the quality of the electricity transmission services that it supplies, by reference to certain quality measures and targets.
 - 3.5 In order to comply with the Determination, Transpower is required to provide the Commission with an annual compliance monitoring statement and associated information pursuant to the Commission's powers under sections 53N and 98 of the Act that:
 - (a) states whether Transpower has complied with the price path, and demonstrates this by showing whether the forecast revenues (exclusive of pass-through costs and recoverable costs) that it used for the purpose of setting charges under the transmission pricing methodology in the Electricity Industry Participation Code exceeded, in aggregate, the forecast maximum allowable revenue that applied to the relevant disclosure year;
 - (b) states whether Transpower has complied with the quality standards;
 - (c) supports the forecast maximum allowable revenue calculations that Transpower is required to perform under the Determination;
 - (d) is signed off with a directors' certificate on compliance with the price path requirements, quality standard requirements and associated information requirements in the annual compliance monitoring statement; and
 - (e) is covered by an independent assurance report that expresses an opinion on whether the compliance monitoring statement and associated information has been prepared in accordance with the Determination.
4. How the Determination is publicly available

Copies of the Determination, and a reasons paper providing detailed background to and analysis of the Determination, are available for inspection free of charge at the Commission (during ordinary office hours), on the Commission's website at www.comcom.govt.nz, or for purchase at a reasonable price at the Commission, 44 The Terrace, Wellington.

COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Explanatory Note

The Commerce Amendment Act 2008 introduced changes to the Commerce Act 1986 ("Act"), including a requirement for the Commerce Commission ("Commission") to recommend to the Minister of Commerce that an Order in Council be made declaring that Transpower is subject to either default/customised price-quality regulation or individual price-quality regulation under the Act. On 13 April 2010, the Commission recommended that Transpower be subject to individual price-quality regulation. On 23 August 2010, the Governor-General made the Commerce (Part 4 Regulation – Transpower) Order 2010, which provided that Transpower is subject to individual price-quality regulation on and from 1 April 2011. Pursuant to that Order in Council, the Commission has made the Commerce Act (Transpower Individual Price-Quality Path) Determination 2010. That determination contains an individual price-quality path which will take effect on 1 April 2011. Transpower must apply the relevant input methodologies in the Commerce Act (Transpower Input Methodologies) Determination 2010 in order to comply with the individual price-quality path determination.

Commerce Act (Summary of Specified Airport Services Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011

Pursuant to Part 4 of the Commerce Act 1986 (“Act”), the Commerce Commission (“Commission”) gives the following notice.

Notice

1. Title—This notice is the Commerce Act (Summary of Specified Airport Services Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011.

2. Specified airport services input methodologies determination

2.1 On 22 December 2010, the Commission made the Commerce Act (Specified Airport Services Input Methodologies Determination 2010 (“Determination”).

2.2 The Determination sets out the input methodologies that apply to the supply of specified airport services, as that term is defined in section 56A of the Act (“Specified Airport Services”) for the purpose of information disclosure regulation, as required by Part 4 of the Act.

2.3 In accordance with section 52W(2) of the Act, this notice is published as a brief description of the nature of each input methodology and the goods or services to which it applies. It includes the reasons for determining the methodologies and how the methodologies are publicly available.

3. Nature of the input methodologies and the goods or services to which they apply

The following input methodologies apply to Specified Airport Services:

- (a) Cost of capital (an approach to calculating a weighted average cost of capital by applying a specified methodology that includes certain fixed parameters); and
- (b) asset valuation (an approach to calculating the value of the initial regulatory asset base and how this is rolled forward over time, including rules regarding depreciation and revaluation of assets); and
- (c) cost allocation (an accounting-based approach to allocating costs that are “not directly attributable” between each of the three regulated activities, and between the regulated and unregulated activities (in aggregate)); and
- (d) treatment of taxation (a tax payable approach to calculating a tax allowance for regulatory purposes).

4. Reasons for determining the input methodologies

4.1 The Commission was required to determine input methodologies that apply to Specified Airport Services by no later than 31 December 2010 (pursuant to an extension granted by the Minister of Commerce under section 52U(2) of the Act).

4.2 The Commission has undertaken a process of extensive consultation with interested parties, including by holding workshops and a conference, and has obtained sufficient information to make its input methodologies determination.

4.3 Having considered all submissions received from interested parties within set time frames throughout the consultation process, the Commission has determined the input methodologies on the basis that they meet the purpose of input methodologies as set out in section 52R of the Act and meet the purpose of Part 4, as set out in section 52A of the Act, and that no materially better alternative has been proposed during the consultation process.

4.4 More comprehensive detail of the background and analysis to support these reasons for determining the input methodologies is set out in the Input Methodologies (Airport Services) Reasons Paper, 22 December 2010 (“Reasons Paper”).

5. How the Determination is publicly available

Copies of the Determination and the Reasons Paper are available for inspection free of charge at the Commission (during ordinary office hours), on the Commission’s website at www.comcom.govt.nz, or for purchase at a reasonable price at the Commission, 44 The Terrace, Wellington.

Dated at Wellington this 20th day of January 2011.

COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Explanatory Note

The Commerce Amendment Act 2008 introduced changes to the Commerce Act 1986 (“Act”), including a requirement for the Commerce Commission (“Commission”) to determine up-front input methodologies that apply to regulated services, to the extent applicable to the type of regulation under consideration.

The purpose of input methodologies is to promote certainty for suppliers and consumers in relation to the rules, requirements, and processes applying to the regulation, or proposed regulation, of goods or services under Part 4 of the Act.

The purpose of Part 4, as set out in section 52A of the Act, is to promote the long-term benefit of consumers in markets where there is little or no competition and little or no likelihood of a substantial increase in competition, by promoting outcomes that are consistent with outcomes produced in competitive markets such that suppliers of regulated goods or services:

- (a) have incentives to innovate and invest, including in replacement, upgraded, and new assets; and*
- (b) have incentives to improve efficiency and provide services at a quality that reflects consumer demands; and*
- (c) share with consumers the benefits of efficiency gains in the supply of the regulated goods or services, including through lower prices; and*
- (d) are limited in their ability to extract excessive profits.*

In accordance with section 56C of the Act, suppliers of specified airport services are subject only to information disclosure regulation and hence, under section 53F of the Act, they are not required to apply the cost of capital input methodology that is referred to in this notice. The Commission may, however, use that input methodology to monitor and analyse information and suppliers may be required to disclose information about the methodologies for evaluating or determining the cost of capital that they do in fact use.

Commerce Act (Summary of Gas Transmission Services Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011

Pursuant to Part 4 of the Commerce Act 1986 (“Act”), the Commerce Commission (“Commission”) gives the following notice.

Notice

1. Title—This notice is the Commerce Act (Summary of Gas Transmission Services Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011.

2. Gas transmission services input methodologies determination

2.1 On 22 December 2010, the Commission made the Commerce Act (Gas Transmission Input Methodologies) Determination 2010 (“Determination”).

2.2 The Determination sets out the input methodologies that apply to the supply of gas transmission services, as that term is defined in the Determination (“Gas Transmission Services”) for the purpose of information disclosure regulation and default/customised price-quality regulation, as required by Part 4 of the Act.

2.3 In accordance with section 52W(2) of the Act, this notice is published as a brief description of the nature of each input methodology and the goods or services to which it applies. It includes the reasons for determining the methodologies and how the methodologies are publicly available.

3. Nature of the input methodologies and the goods or services to which they apply

The following input methodologies apply to Gas Transmission Services:

- (a) Cost of capital (an approach to calculating a weighted average cost of capital by applying a specified methodology that includes certain fixed parameters, and an approach to calculating a term credit spread differential); and
- (b) asset valuation (an approach to calculating the value of the initial regulatory asset base and how this is rolled forward over time, including rules regarding depreciation and revaluation of assets); and
- (c) cost allocation (three complementary approaches to allocating costs that are “not directly attributable” between each type of regulated service, and between the regulated and unregulated services (in aggregate)); and
- (d) treatment of taxation (a tax payable approach to calculating a tax allowance for regulatory purposes); and
- (e) pricing methodologies (an approach that specifies certain pricing principles); and
- (f) regulatory processes and rules relating to:
 - (i) specification of price (which includes that maximum prices or revenues may be specified by either a weighted average price cap or revenue cap, and identifies any costs that can be passed through to prices); and
 - (ii) amalgamations (which specifies how certain amalgamations between regulated suppliers will be treated under price-quality regulation); and
 - (iii) incremental rolling incentive scheme (an approach that allows regulated suppliers to retain efficiency gains in controllable operating expenditure across regulatory periods); and
 - (iv) reconsideration of a default price-quality path (the circumstances in which a default price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period); and
 - (v) catastrophic events and reconsideration of a customised price-quality path (the circumstances in which a customised price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period); and
- (g) matters relating to proposals by a regulated supplier for a customised price-quality path, including:
 - (i) requirements that must be met by the regulated supplier, including the scope and specificity of information required (such as information regarding quality, price, expenditure and the application of the input methodologies referred to above); the extent of independent verification, audit and certification; and the extent of consultation and agreement with consumers; and
 - (ii) the criteria that the Commission will use to evaluate any proposal.

4. Reasons for determining the input methodologies

4.1 The Commission was required to determine input methodologies that apply to gas pipeline services (which include Gas Transmission Services) by no later than 31 December 2010 (pursuant to an extension granted by the Minister of Commerce under section 52U(2) of the Act).

4.2 The Commission has undertaken a process of extensive consultation with interested parties, including by holding workshops and a conference, and has obtained sufficient information to make its input methodologies determination.

4.3 Having considered all submissions received from interested parties within set time frames throughout the consultation process, the Commission considers that the input methodologies that it has determined meet the purpose of input methodologies as set out in section 52R of the Act and meet the purpose of Part 4, as set out in section 52A of the Act, and that no materially better alternatives have been proposed during the consultation process.

4.4 More comprehensive detail of the background and analysis to support these reasons for determining the input methodologies is set out in the Input Methodologies (Electricity Distribution and Gas Pipeline Services) Reasons Paper, 22 December 2010 (“Reasons Paper”).

5. How the Determination is publicly available

Copies of the Determination and the Reasons Paper are available for inspection free of charge at the Commission (during ordinary office hours), on the Commission’s website at www.comcom.govt.nz, or for purchase at a reasonable price at the Commission, 44 The Terrace, Wellington.

 - (iii) incremental rolling incentive scheme (an approach that allows regulated suppliers to retain efficiency gains in controllable operating expenditure across regulatory periods); and
 - (iv) reconsideration of a default price-quality path (the circumstances in which a default price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period); and
 - (v) catastrophic events and reconsideration of a customised price-quality path (the circumstances in which a customised price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period); and
- (g) matters relating to proposals by a regulated supplier for a customised price-quality path, including:
 - (i) requirements that must be met by the regulated supplier, including the scope and specificity of information required (such as information regarding quality, price, expenditure and the application of the input methodologies referred to above); the extent of independent verification, audit and certification; and the extent of consultation and agreement with consumers; and
 - (ii) the criteria that the Commission will use to evaluate any proposal.

4. Reasons for determining the input methodologies

- 4.1 The Commission was required to determine input methodologies that apply to gas pipeline services (which include Gas Distribution Services) by no later than 31 December 2010 (pursuant to an extension granted by the Minister of Commerce under section 52U(2) of the Act).
- 4.2 The Commission has undertaken a process of extensive consultation with interested parties, including by holding workshops and a conference, and has obtained sufficient information to make its input methodologies determination.
- 4.3 Having considered all submissions received from interested parties within set time frames throughout the consultation process, the Commission considers that the input methodologies that it has determined meet the purpose of input methodologies as set out in section 52R of the Act and meet the purpose of Part 4 of the Act, as set out in section 52A of the Act, and that no materially better alternatives have been proposed during the consultation process.

4.4 More comprehensive detail of the background and analysis to support these reasons for determining the input methodologies is set out in the Input Methodologies (Electricity Distribution and Gas Pipeline Services) Reasons Paper, 22 December 2010 ("Reasons Paper").

5. How the Determination is publicly available

Copies of the Determination and the Reasons Paper are available for inspection free of charge at the Commission (during ordinary office hours), on the Commission's website at www.comcom.govt.nz, or for purchase at a reasonable price at the Commission, 44 The Terrace, Wellington.

COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Explanatory Note

The Commerce Amendment Act 2008 introduced changes to the Commerce Act 1986 ("Act"), including a requirement for the Commerce Commission to determine up-front input methodologies that apply to regulated services, to the extent applicable to the type of regulation under consideration.

The purpose of input methodologies is to promote certainty for suppliers and consumers in relation to the rules, requirements, and processes applying to the regulation, or proposed regulation, of goods or services under Part 4 of the Act.

The purpose of Part 4, as set out in section 52A of the Act, is to promote the long-term benefit of consumers in markets where there is little or no competition and little or no likelihood of a substantial increase in competition, by promoting outcomes that are consistent with outcomes produced in competitive markets such that suppliers of regulated goods or services:

- (a) have incentives to innovate and invest, including in replacement, upgraded, and new assets; and*
- (b) have incentives to improve efficiency and provide services at a quality that reflects consumer demands; and*
- (c) share with consumers the benefits of efficiency gains in the supply of the regulated goods or services, including through lower prices; and*
- (d) are limited in their ability to extract excessive profits.*

Commerce Act (Summary of Transpower Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011

Pursuant to Part 4 of the Commerce Act 1986 ("Act"), the Commerce Commission ("Commission") gives the following notice.

Notice

1. Title—This notice is the Commerce Act (Summary of Transpower Input Methodologies Determination) Notice 2011.

2. Transpower input methodologies determination

2.1 On 22 December 2010, the Commission made the Commerce Act (Transpower Input Methodologies) Determination 2010 ("Determination").

2.2 The Determination sets out the input methodologies that apply to the supply of electricity lines services, as that term is defined in section 54C of the Act ("Electricity Lines Services") by Transpower, as that term is defined in section 54B of the Act ("Transpower") for the purpose of information disclosure regulation and individual price-quality regulation, as required by Part 4 of the Act.

2.3 In accordance with section 52W(2) of the Act, this notice is published as a brief description of the nature of each input methodology and the goods or services to which it applies. It includes the reasons for determining the methodologies and how the methodologies are publicly available.

3. Nature of the input methodologies and the goods or services to which they apply

The following input methodologies apply to Electricity Lines Services that are supplied by Transpower:

- (a) Cost of capital (an approach to calculating a weighted average cost of capital by applying a specified methodology that includes certain fixed parameters, and an approach to calculating a term credit spread differential); and
- (b) asset valuation (an approach to calculating the value of the initial regulatory asset base and how this is rolled forward over time, including rules regarding depreciation and revaluation of assets); and
- (c) cost allocation (an approach which ensures that costs that have been allocated under any agreement in respect of the provision of system operator services are not also recoverable through the charges for other Electricity Lines Services that Transpower supplies); and
- (d) treatment of taxation (a tax payable approach to calculating a tax allowance for regulatory purposes); and
- (e) regulatory rules and processes relating to:
 - (i) specification of price (which includes that maximum revenues will be specified by a total revenue cap, and identifies any costs that can be passed through to prices);
 - (ii) incremental rolling incentive scheme (an approach that allows Transpower to retain efficiency gains in controllable operating expenditure across regulatory periods); and
 - (iii) reconsideration of an individual price-quality path (the circumstances in which an individual price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period).

4. Reasons for determining the input methodologies

4.1 The Commission was required to determine input methodologies that apply to Electricity Lines Services (including Electricity Lines Services that are supplied by Transpower) by no later than 31 December 2010 (pursuant to an extension granted by the Minister of Commerce under section 52U(2) of the Act).

4.2 The Commission has undertaken a process of extensive consultation with interested parties, including by holding workshops and a conference, and has obtained sufficient information to make its input methodologies determination.

4.3 Having considered all submissions received from interested parties within set time frames throughout the consultation process, the Commission considers that the input methodologies that it has determined meet the purpose of input methodologies as set out in section 52R of the Act and meet the purpose of Part 4 of the Act, as set out in section 52A of the Act, and that no materially better alternatives have been proposed during the consultation process.

4.4 More comprehensive detail of the background and analysis to support these reasons for determining the input methodologies is set out in the Input Methodologies (Transpower) Reasons Paper, 22 December 2010 (“Reasons Paper”).

5. How the Determination is publicly available

5.1 Copies of the Determination and the Reasons Paper are available for inspection free of charge at the Commission (during ordinary office hours), on the Commission’s website at www.comcom.govt.nz, or for purchase at a reasonable price at the Commission, 44 The Terrace, Wellington.

- (c) cost allocation (three complementary approaches to allocating costs that are “not directly attributable” between each type of regulated service, and between the regulated and unregulated services (in aggregate)); and
- (d) treatment of taxation (a modified deferred tax approach to calculating a tax allowance for regulatory purposes); and
- (e) regulatory processes and rules relating to:
 - (i) specification of price (which includes that maximum prices or revenues will be specified by a weighted average price cap, and identifies any costs that can be passed through to prices); and
 - (ii) amalgamations (which specifies how certain amalgamations between regulated suppliers will be treated under price-quality regulation); and
 - (iii) incremental rolling incentive scheme (an approach that allows regulated suppliers to retain efficiency gains in controllable operating expenditure across regulatory periods); and
 - (iv) reconsideration of a default price-quality path (the circumstances in which a default price-quality path may be reconsidered within a regulatory period); and

COMMERCE COMMISSION.

Explanatory Note

The Commerce Amendment Act 2008 introduced changes to the Commerce Act 1986 ("Act"), including a requirement for the Commerce Commission ("Commission") to determine up-front input methodologies that apply to regulated services, to the extent applicable to the type of regulation under consideration.

The purpose of input methodologies is to promote certainty for suppliers and consumers in relation to the rules, requirements, and processes applying to the regulation, or proposed regulation, of goods or services under Part 4 of the Act.

The purpose of Part 4, as set out in section 52A of the Act, is to promote the long-term benefit of consumers in markets where there is little or no competition and little or no likelihood of a substantial increase in competition, by promoting outcomes that are consistent with outcomes produced in competitive markets such that suppliers of regulated goods or services:

- (a) have incentives to innovate and invest, including in replacement, upgraded, and new assets; and*
- (b) have incentives to improve efficiency and provide services at a quality that reflects consumer demands; and*
- (c) share with consumers the benefits of efficiency gains in the supply of the regulated goods or services, including through lower prices; and*
- (d) are limited in their ability to extract excessive profits.*

In accordance with section 54G(2) of the Act, suppliers of electricity lines services that are "consumer-owned" (as that term is defined in section 54D of the Act) are subject only to information disclosure regulation and hence, under section 53F of the Act, they are not required to apply the cost of capital input methodology that is referred to in this notice. The Commission may, however, use that input methodology to monitor and analyse information and suppliers may be required to disclose information about the methodologies for evaluating or determining the cost of capital that they do in fact use.
